Report Oncology Posting of PG Students at Vivekanand Cancer Hospital, Latur

Department of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, MIDSR Dental College Latur created MOU with Vivekanand cancer hospital, Latur for oncology peripheral postings of PG students as follows

Sr no	Student's name	Duration of posting
1	Dr. Shubham Bhele	11 th march – 10 th may
2	Dr. Dnyaneshwar Sakhare	11 th may – 10 th July
3	Dr. Laxmi Yogi	21 st august – 20 th October

1. Introduction:

This report summarizes the clinical experience and knowledge gained during the oncology posting at the [Vivekanand cancer Hospital]. The posting aimed to provide oral and maxillofacial surgery students with exposure to oncologic conditions affecting the head and neck region, the multidisciplinary management of such conditions, and the role of oral and maxillofacial surgery in oncologic care.

2. Objectives of the Posting:

- To understand the epidemiology, pathophysiology, and clinical presentation of head and neck cancers.
- To observe and participate in the multidisciplinary approach to managing oncologic patients.
- To learn about the surgical techniques and procedures used in the treatment of oral and maxillofacial malignancies.
- To understand the role of oral and maxillofacial surgeons in the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and rehabilitation of oncologic patients.

3. Activities and Observations:

- Ward Rounds: Participated in daily ward rounds with the oncology team, discussing patient management plans, reviewing diagnostic results, and understanding the clinical decision-making process.

- Surgical Procedures: Observed and assisted in various surgical procedures, including tumor resections, neck dissections, reconstruction of surgical defects, and palliative surgeries.

-Outpatient Clinics: Attended outpatient clinics to learn about patient consultations, diagnostic evaluations, preoperative planning, and postoperative care.

-Multidisciplinary Meetings: Attended tumor board meetings involving oncologists, radiologists, pathologists, and surgeons to discuss complex cases and create personalized treatment plans.

- Research and Case Presentations: Conducted literature reviews on assigned topics and presented case studies, including the diagnosis, treatment plan, and outcomes of patients managed during the posting.

4. Key Learnings:

-Diagnosis and Staging of Cancers: Gained insights into the diagnostic methods and staging systems (such as TNM classification) used for head and neck cancers.

-Surgical Techniques: Observed various surgical techniques such as composite resections, flap reconstructions (free flap and pedicled flap), and minimally invasive surgeries.

-Multidisciplinary Care: Learned about the importance of a multidisciplinary approach in oncology, including the roles of chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and immunotherapy, in conjunction with surgical interventions.

- Patient Communication: Developed skills in patient communication, particularly in discussing diagnoses, treatment options, and postoperative care with patients and their families.

5. Challenges Encountered:

-Complexity of Cases: Understanding the complexity of oncologic cases and the various factors influencing treatment decisions.

-Emotional Impact: Managing the emotional impact of dealing with severely ill patients, palliative care, and end-of-life discussions.

-Time Management: Balancing the diverse learning activities, such as surgical observation, ward duties, research, and case presentations, within a limited posting period.

6. Conclusion:

The oncology posting provided a valuable opportunity to gain first-hand experience in the management of head and neck cancers. The exposure to multidisciplinary care, advanced surgical techniques, and patient management has significantly enhanced our understanding and preparedness for future roles as oral and maxillofacial surgeons in oncologic care.

7. Recommendations:

-For Future Postings: Extend the duration of postings to allow for deeper immersion in patient care and more opportunities to assist in surgeries.

-Additional Training: Incorporate training on communication skills, particularly for delivering difficult news to patients and families.

8. Acknowledgements:

We would like to express our gratitude to the oncology team, including Dr. Brijmohan Zanwar, for their guidance and support during this posting. Special thanks to the patients who allowed us to be part of their care journey.
